Acton is an area of West London, England, within the London Borough of Ealing. It is 6.1 miles (10 km) West of Charing Cross. It lies within the Historic County of Middlesex.

Central Acton is synonymous with the hub of commerce and retail on the former main road between London and Oxford (the Uxbridge Road.) Nowadays, the principal route linking London and Oxford (the A40 dual carriageway) bypasses central Acton, but passes through East Acton and North Acton.

Acton has seven railway stations bearing its name, more than any other place in the United Kingdom other than London itself. Acton is also the only place in London to have stations named after all four of its cardinal points, North, South, East, and West.

There are many local schools nearby some of these include St Vincent's Catholic Primary School, Derwentwater Primary School, Greek Primary School of London, Twyford Church of England High School and The Ellen Wilkinson School for Girls.
