About this property

This attractive double-fronted period home, dating back to the mid-1800s, has been sympathetically extended to create a stylish and versatile family residence. Built in stone with distinctive arched windows, it enjoys far-reaching views of the Abergavenny mountains and offers four bedrooms, three reception rooms, a Shaker-style kitchen with breakfast area, and a utility room. The property is approached through a central hallway with a characterful oak front door and leaded glass detail. The layout is well balanced, featuring dual-aspect rooms, oak flooring, and a neutral palette throughout. To one side, a spacious lounge/dining room links seamlessly to the kitchen and utility area; opposite, a dual-aspect sitting room flows into a study, which could also serve as a fifth bedroom with the convenience of an adjoining shower room. On the first floor, there are four bedrooms—three generous doubles—all enjoying hillside views and pine flooring. The principal suite benefits from a large en-suite shower room, while the remaining bedrooms are served by a family bathroom complete with a freestanding Victorian-style bath. Externally, the garden extends to the front of the property, mainly laid to lawn with a paved patio area. The house enjoys a vehicular right of access and offers the potential to create up to four off-street parking spaces within the garden.
